Longtime HVAC Executive Robert Engel, Jr. Retires Legacy of service evident during 45-year career

MANCHESTER, NH (September 17, 2025) – New England-based HVAC distributor API of New Hampshire/Delta T announced today the retirement of longtime leader Robert Engel, Jr.

The successor to a business started by his father, Robert Engel, Sr., he has been a noted member of the HVAC community throughout the region. Engel grew up in the business, focused on supporting the success of area independent HVAC contractors.

"It has been the honor of a lifetime to be part of this business," Engel said. "This is the company my father started, and one that has grown and prospered because of the incredible people who have poured their talent, time and heart into it. As I move into this next chapter of my life, I do so with immense gratitude and pride."

Under his leadership, API of New Hampshire expanded to eight locations with the acquisitions of Tobey Sheet Metal in Eliot, Maine and Delta T in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

The company was purchased in 2021 by mSupply, a leading North American distributor of appliance, HVAC and plumbing parts and equipment.

"The New England HVAC community owes a debt of gratitude to the Engel family -- and Robert Engel, Jr. in particular -- for the decades of leadership they have provided," said Ed Doherty, mSupply's Regional Vice President. "His knowledge of the business, his passion and dedication to customer service is extraordinary, serving as a solid foundation for the future."
